

Do you have any comments to make?

Complete list of all responses given to this question

- Keep up the good work and many blessings
- I am a friend of one of the team members and attend another church. I enjoyed seeing what Gynea Church and Ros were doing. Well done, thanks.
- Thank you for your work in Cambodia and the sacrifices the team and church has made to make the mission happen to help those so far away.
- I loved the emails, photos, video, skype. It gave me things to pray for on a daily basis as well as feeling connected to what everyone was doing. It was also helpful to put faces to names of our partners, and being able to see what their conditions were like. I'm already excited for next year. Thanks Martin for allowing this to happen!!!
- would have liked captions on the photos, at times i wasn't sure what they were. Not all the team were shown in the photos. I realise this was probably due to the different locations but it was sad if you were looking for someone.
- Overall I thought the whole thing was excellent, I was excited everyday to check to see updates I felt apart of things even though I wasn't there. Great work, thanks
- What a sensational website. Congratulations Martin, a very useful, informative and well connected mission journey that helped us experience what our loved ones were going through. Thanks a million!!!!
- I haven't answered questions 9 or 10 as no answer fit my situation
- thank you
- I really appreciated the whole effort made by those who were away and at home. The afternoon tea was good and appreciate the work that went in but I think better communication at the beginning as to what to expect for our time there would have helped. I think it would have been nice to break into small groups for prayer while we were there.
- Great work, very well done.
- I don't know who originally thought to have a daily update words/photos/video but I'm very glad Martin was able to undertake that task as it was invaluable to me and the kids. To see him and to hear my husbands voice was incredible. I think it would be even better to share time on skype individually at home if access is available as its so cheap to do.

- Would like to see all our missos where possible on a skype session during services. eg the month the missionary is featured. Fresh reminder of their project.
- Some people featured in photos more than others. It was good when you tried to include everyone each day.
- Two videos I could not open for some reason, did not connect. I noticed in the pictures there appeared to be more of certain team members than others, overall. Just suggesting to attempt include each member, not concentrate on specific members too much. You have performed a fantastic role and we thank you enormously as well as praise God for your gifting and how you use it at GBC.
- I loved all the email, they were awesome
- An excellent job!!
- The photos were great but I often didn't know what the situation was. Good to have short explanation with the photo. Great job Martin
- Highlight the comment side of the posts each day. Some people this year didn't realise they could comment back generally to the team.
- Great coverage. Well done!
- Video sound tracks need adjustment. Could not understand all that was being said.
- I was both a parent and a mentor but I couldn't tick more than one option (See question 14)
- I would have loved to have more of everything but I do realise that that may be unrealistic for Martin to achieve. Great work, the conection we felt must also have been helpful for those in Cambodia to not feel isolated and that those in Sydney were supporting them in prayer. We are now looking forward to our Life Group member who went to Cambodia to share her story. The stories shared yesterday in church helped those who didn't go to understand how useful the trip and our May Mission Month has been. God is so great, sharing this is with those in need is wonderful.
- I am Sam Headen's mum and Julie Chisholm's sister. I loved feeling connected even from wa. Over here in the US. Thanks.
- Having never had much todo with "overseas mission", it gave me much more of an insight into their purpose for going and also I felt that I experienced it, at a level far greater than if I had just heard people report back on what they had done. Great job, thanks

- I loved the emails and website, thank you Martin for your incredible efforts. Perhaps next time it would be good to have some of the blogs written by other team members to get different perspectives. I think you have set a precedent Martin that will definitely be wanted in future Mission trips.